Pew Research Center
Spring 2024 Global Attitudes Survey
September 4, 2025, release

Methodological notes:

- Survey results are based on national samples. For further details on sample designs, refer to the “How we did this” section and our international survey methods database.
- All questions included have been previously released with general population figures. This topline presents findings only for religiously unaffiliated adults. For figures among other religious groups, as well as the general population in each country, consult the following reports and their associated topline:
 - “Around the World, Many People Are Leaving Their Childhood Religions”
 - “Believing in Spirits and Life After Death Is Common Around the World”
 - “Comparing Levels of Religious Nationalism Around the World”
- Only countries where survey samples of religiously unaffiliated adults are large enough to be analyzed are included.
- The data for the United States comes from four different surveys: American Trends Panel (ATP) Waves 132, 143 and 145, and the 2023-24 Religious Landscape Study (RLS).
 - Q27 and Q29a-Q29c come from ATP W132.
 - Q28, Q30a-Q30c, Q31a-Q31d, Q33a-c, Q37a-c, Q38, Q39 and Q42 come from ATP W143.
 - Q34a/Q36a comes from ATP W145.
 - Q23, Q24, Q25 and Q32 come from the RLS.
- U.S. religious affiliation data also comes from the RLS. Refer to this previous topline for additional information on religious affiliation in the U.S. and the other surveyed countries.
- For questions asked on ATP Wave 143, this analysis reports the opinions of 3,207 religiously unaffiliated adults in the U.S. – slightly more than the 3,205 included in a previous analysis of U.S. data. The sample size differences are attributable to small differences in the backcoding of religious identity questions across the two studies.
- Due to rounding, percentages may not total 100%. The topline “total” columns show 100%, because they are based on unrounded numbers.
- Not all questions included in the Spring 2024 Global Attitudes Survey are presented in this topline. Omitted questions have either been previously released or will be released in future reports.

Questionnaire notes:

The term used for the national leader varied across different surveyed places.

- Respondents were asked about the qualities of the president in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, France, Mexico, Peru, South Africa, South Korea, and the United States.
- Respondents were asked about the qualities of the prime minister in Australia, Canada, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Singapore, Spain, Sweden and the United Kingdom.
- Respondents were asked about the qualities of the chancellor in Germany.

We asked people in each country about the importance of being a member of a particular religion as well as the influence of specific religious texts on their national laws. In each country, we selected and asked about the country's historically predominant religion and its corresponding sacred text. In Japan and South Korea, we asked all respondents separately about the influence of two religions and two religious texts.

- Respondents were asked Christianity and the Bible in Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Colombia, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Mexico, the Netherlands, Peru, South Africa, South Korea, Spain, Sweden, the United Kingdom and the United States.
- Respondents were asked about Buddhism and Buddhist dharma in Japan, Singapore and South Korea.
- Respondents were asked about Shinto and Shinto teachings in Japan.

Totals may not add to the first column due to rounding, and because a handful of respondents who are religiously unaffiliated could not be categorized as one of the three specific subcategories included here (atheist, agnostic and "nothing in particular"). This variable uses both closed-ended and open-ended responses. The "Religiously unaffiliated" category includes open-ended responses coded as "Religiously unaffiliated," as well as all respondents who selected any of the following close-ended response options: atheist, agnostic or "nothing in particular." Consult the methodological note at the beginning of this topline for more information.
